An activity has been organized on “Product Management for Cloud Computing” for the student of MCA and B.Sc. Data Science (Hons.). The details are mentioned below:

Name of Activity	: A session on “Product Management for Cloud Computing”
Date	: 11 th October 2023
Key Speaker	: Mr. Manish Srivastav, IT Department, SRHU
Objectives	: To educate participants on product management principles relevant to cloud, and foster an understanding of the dynamic cloud technology landscape, security considerations, and the importance of cross-functional collaboration to successfully manage cloud products.

Summary

The session on "Product Management for Cloud Computing" by Mr. Manish Srivastav provided invaluable insights into the dynamic world of product management within the context of cloud computing. The session delved into the unique challenges and opportunities that product managers face when developing and overseeing cloud-based solutions.

Participants learned about the importance of understanding the diverse needs of customers and how to align product development with the ever-evolving cloud technology landscape. The session emphasized the significance of staying abreast of emerging cloud technologies, security concerns, and compliance requirements, as these factors play a pivotal role in shaping product strategies.

Moreover, the session highlighted the necessity of fostering cross-functional collaboration between engineering, marketing, and sales teams to successfully manage cloud products. It emphasized the need for agile development methodologies and continuous iteration to adapt to the rapidly changing cloud environment.

The session was very informative and ended with an interactive Q&A session.
