Time: 03:30 PM – 04:30 PM

Venue: HLT-2, Charak (Lecture Hall)

Topic: RHEUMATIC HEART DISEASE WITH DIFFUSE PULMONARY INFILTRATES: A COMPLEX INTERPLAY

Abstract:

Most chronic disorders have the best outcome with timely diagnosis and management, however, undesirable situations such as delay in symptom expression, social neglect, and resource limitations, add to the delay in management. Patients with valvular heart diseases such as mitral stenosis can present in acute care settings with a wide range of clinical presentations, from acute heart failure, infective endocarditis, recurrent respiratory infections, cerebrovascular accidents, etc. Pulmonary infiltrates in the setting of RHD can be secondary to pneumonia, acute heart failure, alveolar hemorrhage, pulmonary hemosiderosis, or pulmonary hypertension. Pulmonary infiltrates coexisting with heart disease add to challenges in management. In the absence of reliable history, management becomes further demanding.

In this Clinical Death Review, we will be discussing a case of a 38-year-old male with a hearing disability since birth who presented with complaints of chest discomfort for months progressing acutely within 7 days in association with fever, cough, and hemoptysis. On evaluation was found to have chronic rheumatic heart disease with valvular stenosis. The patient was managed for ARDS, sepsis as well as heart failure to which he responded initially. Unfortunately, on the 7th day of admission, we lost the patient to an acute cardiac event.

After the CDR, there will be a 10-minute presentation by undergraduate student of Batch 2022. The students of Batch 2022 & 2023 are requested to attend the presentation
